NOON REPORTS.

The Republican Convention.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Mr. Hale moved to proceed, under the rules, to ballot for a candidate for President, which was seconded by Mr. Conkling.

Mr. Hoar addressed the Convention upon the importance of the proceedings about to be had, counseling dignity, decorum and quiet by both delegates and spectators.

The roll of States was then called, and the votes were cast as follows:—

The second ballot resulted as follows:—Grant, 305; Blaine, 282; Sherman, 94; Edmunds, 52; Windom, 10; Washburne, 31; Garfield, 1.

After the first vote Conkling called for an individual roll-call, apparently for the purpose of getting the record of Woodin's vote which, however, was cast by his alternate for Blaine.

One vote was short in West Virginia, which is understood to be because of the absence of one delegate.

Mr. Campbell, of West Virginia, attempted to make a statement as to the vote but it was ruled out of order and he then cast the vote. Immediately afterwards Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, attempted to make a question of privilege of it and to state that Mr. Campbell's object was to present the vote of the alternate, but he too was ruled out of order.

3rd ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 282; Sherman, 92; Edmunds, 32; Windom, 10; Washburne, 31, Garfield, 1; Ben Harrison, of Indiana, 1.

4th ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 282; Sherman, 95; Edmunds, 32; Windom, 10; Washburne, 30; Garfield, 1.

5th ballot—No further change from the 4th ballot.

6th ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 281; Sherman, 95; Edmunds, 31; Windom, 10; Garfield 2.

In the 7th ballot Grant gained one from Sherman, in North Carolina, and in South Carolina Grant lost and Blaine gained one.

8th ballot—Grant, 306; Blaine, 284; Sherman, 91; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 32; Windom, 10; Garfield, 1.

After the 6th ballot Mr. Harrison moved to take a recess until 3 o'clock which was lost by a large majority. On the eighth ballot Grant recovered the one he lost in Alabama on the last ballot. In Indiana Sherman lost two, who went to Blaine. In Maryland Blaine gained one from Sherman.

9th Ballot—Grant, 308; Blaine, 284; Sherman 90; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 32; Windom, 10; Garfield, 1.

Of the 8th ballot the totals officially announced were: Grant, 306; Blaine, 284; Sherman, 91; Edmunds, 31; Windom, 10; Washburne, 32; Garfield, 1.

The Chair announced that there was no choice, and the 9th ballot was ordered. As compared with the 8th ballot Blaine lost one vote, which went to Garfield; Grant gained one from Sherman from Mississippi. Grant gained one in North Carolina from Sherman, being the vote which went from Grant to Sherman on the 8th ballot. One went from Blaine to Sherman in Virginia. The results as announced were: Grant, 308; Blaine, 282; Sherman, 90; Edmunds, 31; Windom, 10; Washburne, 32; Garfield, 2. Grant's increase elicited applause.

10th Ballot.—Grant, 305; Blaine, 282; Sherman, 91; Edmunds, 30; Washburne, 32; Windom, 10; Garfield, 2; Hayes, 1.

On the 10th ballot, in Mississippi one went from Grant to Sherman. In Virginia Sherman lost one, which was given to Rutherford B. Hayes. (Applause.) In North Carolina two followed from Grant to Sherman. The result as announced was: Grant, 305; Blaine, 282; Sherman, 92; Edmunds, 31; Windom, 10; Washburne, 32; Garfield, 2; Hayes, 1.

11th Ballot—Grant, 304; Blaine, 281; Sherman, 92; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 32; Windom, 10; Garfield, 2; Hayes, 1.

12th Ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 283; Sherman, 93; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 33; Windom, 10; Garfield, 1; Hayes, 1. Blaine gained 1 from Mississippi.

The thirteenth ballot—Grant 305; Blaine 285; Sherman 89; Edmunds 31; Washburne 33; Windom 10; Hayes 1; McCrary 1. A motion to adjourn till 5 o'clock was lost.

The thirteenth ballot stood as follows: Maryland changed one from Sherman to McCrary, of Iowa. In Mississippi Sherman gained one from Blaine. In Texas Blaine gained one from Sherman. In Virginia Blaine gained one from Hayes and Sherman. In North Carolina Grant gained from Sherman.

Fourteenth ballot—Grant 306; Blaine 285; Sherman 89; Edmunds 31; Washburne 35; Windom 10.

On the fourteenth ballot Blaine gained one from Sherman in Kentucky. In Maryland Washburne gained the vote cast before for McCrary. In North Carolina Grant lost one, which was turned over to Sherman. Pennsylvania gave one for Washburne, heretofore cast for Garfield. Blaine's one vote in Texas went to Grant.

15th ballot—Grant 309; Blaine 281; Sherman 88; Edmunds 31; Washburne 36; Windom 10. Grant's gain was greeted with applause, in which Mr. Conkling was conspicuous.

16th ballot—Alabama transferred one vote from Grant to Blaine. Grant 306; Blaine 283; Sherman 88; Edmunds 31; Washburne 36; Windom 10. In Florida Blaine lost one through the absence of his supporter; Texas changed one from Grant to Blaine; Virginia changed one from Grant to Blaine.

17th ballot—Grant 303; Blaine 284; Sherman 90; Edmunds 31; Windom 10; Washburne 36; Davis 1.

18th ballot—Indiana transferred two from Blaine to Sherman; Maryland one from Washburne to Grant. Grant 3.5; Blaine 283; Sherman 92; Edmunds 31; Washburne 35; Windom 10. On the 18th ballot Texas changed its vote from Davis back to Grant; Virginia tranferred one from Sherman to Blaine.

At the end of the 18th ballot the Convention took a recess until 7 o'clock p. m.

MIDNIGHT REPORTS.

The Republican Convention.

CHICAGO, June 7.—The following is the result on the 19th ballot: Grant, 805; Blaine, 279; Sherman, 96; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 31; Windom, 10; Garfield, 1; Hartranft, 1.

During the 18th ballot, when New York was called, Mr. Arthur announced the vote for Grant, 50; Blaine, 18; Sherman, 2.

Mr. Sharpe rose and questioned the accuracy of the announcement, evidently for the purpose of having the roll called in detail, in order to ascertain who was the additional Blaine men.

EVENING SESSION:—The hall is again well filled. The convention was called to order at 7:23. Changes from the previous ballot were as follows: North Carolina, 1 from Sherman to Grant; Virginia, 2 from Sherman to Blaine; Tennessee, 1 from Blaine to Grant.

20th ballot—Grant, 308; Blaine, 276; Sherman, 93; Edmunds, 30; Washburne, 35; Windom, 10, Garfield, 1; Hartranft, 1.

The 21st ballot was then taken. The changes were as follows: North Carolina, 1 from Grant to Sherman; Texas, 1 from Grant to Blaine; Virginia, 1 from Blaine to Sherman; District of Columbia, 1 from Grant to Sherman.

21st ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 276; Sherman, 96; Edmunds, 31, Washburne, 31; Windom, 10; Garfield, 1; Hartranft, 1.

22d ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 276; Sherman, 95; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 35; Windom, 10; Garfield, 1; Hartranft, 1.

23d ballot—Grant, 304; Blaine, 274; Sherman, 98; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 36; Windom, 10; Garfield, 2.

24th ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 279; Sherman, 93; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 35; Windom, 10; Garfield, 1.

The changes on the 22d ballot were as follows: Florida transferred 1 from Grant to Sherman; North Carolina, 1 from Sherman to Grant; Texas, 1 from Blaine to Sherman.

The changes on the 23d ballot were as follows: Indiana transferred 1 from Sherman to Blaine; North Carolina, 1 from Grant to Sherman; Pennsylvania, 1 from Hartranft to Garfield; West Virginia, 1 from Blaine to Washburne.

25th ballot—Grant, 302; Blaine, 281; Sherman, 94; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 35; Windom, 70; Garfield, 2.

26th ballot—Grant, 303; Blaine, 280; Sherman, 93; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 35; Windom, 10; Garfield, 2.

27th ballot—Grant, 306; Blaine, 277; Sherman, 93; Edmunds, 31; Washburne, 36; Windom, 10; Garfield, 2.

At 11 p. m. the convention adjourned till 10 a. m. to-morrow without any nomination.

Dueling in Richmond.

RICHMOND, Va., June 7.—Warrants were issued to-day for the arrest of W. C. Elam, Editor of the Whig, and Col. Thos. Smith, son of ex Governor Wm. Smith, on the charge of engaging in a duel, and Joseph B. Walters, business manager of the Whig, and General W. H. Payne, for encouraging and promoting said duel. The meeting took place yesterday morning near this city, almost on the identical ground where the fatal McCarthy-Mordecai duel occurred several years since. Elam fell at the first fire, his opponent's ball taking effect in the centre of his chin, splitting the bone and fracturing the right jaw bone. The wound is severe, but not considered dangerous. The warrants were served on Mr. Elam and his alleged second, Mr. Walters, but Mr. Elam's condition precluding his removal, he was paroled. Mr. Walters was arrested, but was subsequently bailed in a bond of $1,000 for his appearance next Saturday. Col. Smith and his party have not been arrested. It is reported that immediately after the duel they proceeded in the direction of West Point, where they intended to take a steamer for Baltimore, thus getting beyond the jurisdiction of the State. The meeting had its origin in an article which appeared in the Whig last Tuesday, headed "Political Poems," and which denounced in unmeasured terms the founders, or so much of the Conservative party as have entirely repudiated the old name under which it had masqueraded and assumed a new style—the Democratic party of Virginia. This denunciation embraced all the leaders since 1869, and included a Governor of Virginia, Wm. Smith, who was chief executive officer at the close of the war; hence the implication of his son in the present affair.

New Railroad Organization.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 7.—The syndicate of bond holders who bought the Savannah and Charleston Railroad, to-day have organized a new company with a capital stock of half a million dollars, and have chosen the following directors, to serve one year: H. B. Plant, Wm. Cutting, W. T. Walters, B. F. Newcomer, W. H. Brawley, C. G. Memminger and A. S. Ravenel. The last three are Charlestonians. Mr. Plant will be President of the Company. The road will immediately be put in complete repair and thoroughly equipped. This with the early completion of the road from May Cross to Jacksonville which is now being rapidly pushed forward will establish a first class coast line from Florida to New York.

Railroad Sold.

COLUMBUS, GA., June 7.—The Enquirer's special from Opelika, Ala., says the Savannah and Memphis Railroad, running sixty miles from Opelika to tide-water, was re sold this morning to Oliver H. Palmer, Macon Young and H. N. Sibley, of New York, for $834,500. It was bought for the bondholders.

Duel in France.

LONDON, June 7.—A Paris dispatch says the editor of Voltaire fought a duel on Friday with a member of the Jockey Club, in which the former was wounded. Prince de Santa Swerina and M. Defronsac fought Saturday on the Belgian frontier. The Prince was wounded.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—SENATE.—The Senate spent the morning hour with the private calendar, and the rest of the day in discussing the Spofford-Kellogg case.

HOUSE.—The House was engaged on private bills.

Fire in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Burlington Hall, on Twenty-second street, occupied as a meat market, was burned yesterday. Loss, $70,000.

WATSON'S NEW SERIES.

The lower numbers of this reading series are remarkable for the "word-building system," the high order of the illustrations, and the interesting but strictly progressive character of the reading lessons. The higher volumes challenge comparison on account of their elocutionary treatises and the noble range of selection from standard literature.

THE DAILY NEWS.

BY P. M. HALE, PRINTER TO THE STATE.

RALEIGH, N. C.

TUESDAY.....JUNE 8, 1880.

COLONEL L. L. POLK.

Annexed are Colonel POLK's letter of resignation of the office of Commissioner of Agriculture, its acceptance by the Board of Agriculture, and his announcement of his connection with THE RALEIGH NEWS.

The loss of Colonel POLK's services to the Agricultural Bureau, which he had organized into a Department most useful to the people, is not a light one. It may be doubted, however, if the State will not gain at least as much by his connection with THE RALEIGH NEWS, at present as its Corresponding Editor and hereafter as one of its active home managers. More thoroughly acquainted, perhaps, with its needs and resources and capacities than any man in North Carolina; a worker who never tires; a man of sense, of quick observation and of sound judgment; he will visit every section of the State, and it is thought that his labors will result in very great advantage to the business of THE NEWS and in incalculable benefit to the State, whose industries will be the principal subject of his examination and correspondence. We need not commend Colonel POLK to the courtesies of the people of North Carolina. No man has a larger personal acquaintance among them, and those to whom he is at present unknown know of him as the faithful and efficient head of one of the most important departments of the public service.

It is scarcely necessary to add that Col. POLK's views of Democratic politics are and have been in entire accord with those of the other owners and the editor of THE NEWS. He will actively assist in giving effect to their intention to make THE NEWS a representative newspaper of the whole Democratic party in North Carolina. No personal organ, bound to no man or set of men, it is to be a mouthpiece of the Democratic people, as a newspaper caring for no man above another, and as a Democratic newspaper only for the party's nominees and the party's representatives.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 24, 1880.

Gov. Thos. J. Jarvis, Chairman State Board of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C.

SIR:—I have the honor to tender my resignation as Commissioner of Agriculture for the State of North Carolina, to take effect on or before the 20th of July next, the date of the next regular quarterly meeting of your honorable body.

Should it be deemed compatible with the interests of the Department, I would regard it as a special personal favor if you would release me from the duties of this office at the earliest practicable moment, as I contemplate engaging in a business that demands my earliest attention. I would not make this request, did I not feel assured that Secretary Wilson is both willing and able to meet the ordinary requirements of the office until that time.

Permit me to assure you that I would not voluntarily relinquish this position for any other that would preclude me from being in the future, as I claim to have been in the past, a devoted friend to the Department, or that would circumscribe my zeal or interest in its behalf; for I beg you to regard me ever, as one who sincerely believes that it is the most powerful agency for advancing the material interests of our beloved Commonwealth. Wherever my lot may be cast, I shall not only watch its progress with the deepest interest, but shall at all times gladly give the aid of my feeble powers to promote the great interests it is designed to foster. The business I propose to engage in will enable me to do so.

With sincerest wishes for your most abundant success which may inure to the advancement and glory of our State, I have the honor to be, sir, with sentiments of very high regard and esteem, your Excellency's obedient servant,

L. L. POLK.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
RALEIGH, N. C., June 4, 1880.

Hon. L. L. Polk:

SIR:—Since you express the urgent desire that you should be relieved from the duties of Commissioner of Agriculture, the Executive Committee of the Board of Agriculture consent to accept the resignation of your office just tendered.

The Committee in doing so beg leave to assure you of their high sense of your character as an officer and as a man, and wish you abundant success in your future life. Very respectfully,

THOMAS J. JARVIS,
KEMP P. BATTLE,
THOMAS M. HOLT,
Executive Committee.

In retiring from the responsible duties of the office of Commissioner of Agriculture for North Carolina I wish to tender to the friends of the Department assurances of my appreciation of the aid and support that they have so freely given me for the past three years. Without their co-operation and encouragement the establishment of such a great work would have been almost impossible; with it the labor though arduous has been one of pleasure. I cheerfully leave it to the people to say whether I have done the State and the cause of agriculture real and substantial service. The guidance of the Department will I trust be placed in abler hands than mine, but in taking leave of it officially I by no means relinquish my attachment to it.

In my new field of labor, as one of the editors of THE NEWS, the Department and all the great interests it represents shall continue to have my faithful and earnest support. THE NEWS, devoted as it will be to the advancement of North Carolina in all her varied interests, will ever be found an active advocate and friend to any and every thing that will promote the prosperity of our people. L. L. POLK.

GEN. SCALES NOT A CANDIDATE.

This distinguished Congressman and excellent gentleman has many friends throughout the State, and his nomination for any office in the people's gift would meet with the hearty support of the Democratic party. A few days ago it was thought that he was to be regarded as in the field for the Gubernatorial nomination, that opinion based upon his letter to the Charlotte Observer of the 4th inst., and reprinted in THE NEWS of the 5th inst. The Observer, which at once nominated Gen. SCALES, regarded the letter as assenting to the use of his name, and so did THE NEWS.

Yesterday afternoon, among the items of State political news, was put in type, from the last Greensboro Patriot, a card from GEO. H. GREGORY, Esq., Chairman of the Democratic Committee for the 5th District, announcing by authority that "Gen. A. M. SCALES is not a candidate under any circumstances for the Gubernatorial nomination."

At 9 o'clock last evening the mail brought us the following letter from Gen. SCALES:—

WASHINGTON, June 7th, 1880.

EDITOR OF NEWS:

Dear Sir:—In your issue of the 5th inst., you say that Gen. Scales may be said to be fairly in the field for the nomination for Governor. I was unfortunate in the use of language if my letter to the Charlotte Observer will justify such construction. If it does, allow me to correct it and repeat with even more emphasis what I did mean. I am not, and do not intend to be in the field for nomination for Governor. I do not seek or want it, and I do not desire my name to be pressed for it. I do ask and prefer the nomination for Congress and no other, but if the party should call me to this position, (I answer the question as it is put to me and do not myself look forward to any such contingency,) then I would not feel at liberty to decline. This is my position without qualification or mental reservation. Public attention has been mainly directed to two distinguished gentlemen in the State for months past; both are entitled to the confidence of the party and the country. One of them will doubtless be nominated; either will be elected if Democrats do their duty.

Respectfully,
A. M. SCALES.

At 9:30 p. m., just as we had finished reading this letter, the following telegram was handed to us:—

GREENSBORO, June 7, 1880.

The Raleigh News:

The following is a copy of a telegram received to-day at 4:41 p. m.: "You are right. I am not and will not be a candidate for Governor.

(Signed) "A. M. SCALES."

GEORGE H. GREGORY,
Chm'n Dem. Com. 5th Con. Dis.

We conclude, therefore, that the popular and efficient representative of the Fifth District will return to his seat in the House, that he is not a candidate for the nomination for Governor, and that he will not be a candidate for Governor.

MANY PEOPLE think that the 12th Article of the United States Constitution forbids the election of President and Vice-President from the same State, and though the fact has been stated very often to be otherwise the notion does not stay corrected. Some one has written from Florida to the Journal of Commerce asking: "Referring to article 12 of the Constitution of the United States, can the President and Vice-President be elected from the same State?" The Constitution does not forbid the election of both President and Vice-President from the same State. The provision is that "the Electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves." This is sufficient to secure the nomination of but one of these officials from any given State, since if both were taken from the same State the electors of that State would be prevented from casting their votes except for part of the ticket. In a close election the Vice-President of the party might thus be defeated while the President would be elected. Besides, a ticket thus composed entirely from one State would be very unpopular; hence the two candidates of each party are always taken from different States.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION adjourned at 11 o'clock last night to 10 o'clock this morning. Yesterday's ballotings are all reported in the morning's telegrams. The outlook for GRANT is not very good, but we still have much confidence in CAMERON, CONKLING, CASH and the "Southern" delegates.

MR. ELAM, Editor of the Richmond Whig, who was yesterday shot in a duel at Richmond, is a native of Fayetteville, where many relatives still reside. The duel grew out of the Democratic debt disputes.

"Grace: "I am going to see Clara today. Have any message?" Charlotte: "I wonder how you can visit that dreadful girl. Give her my love."

NEW YORK CORRESPONDENCE.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

NEW YORK, June 3, 1880.

EDITOR NEWS:—I regret to hear from Dr. Phillips that Colonel Junius I. Scales, who has been under treatment at the Presbyterian Hospital in this city, for a few weeks past, has not improved as was hoped. The account I had of him on yesterday was that he was very ill, but today I learn that he rested well last night and is comfortable.

Your Tuesday's paper records, in feeling and appropriate terms, the death of two among the oldest native-born citizens of Raleigh, both older than your correspondent, both long known to and greatly esteemed by him. Their death carries my mind back to the days when they and I were young in your always beautiful and pleasant city of Raleigh, and I see before me the venerable forms of their fathers—brothers, John and Sherwood Haywood—and hear again the kindly tones in which they addressed me when I had occasion to see them. And there came into my office yesterday another awakener of the memories of those young days, in the person of Mr. J. G. McPheeters, of Baltimore, a son of Rev. Dr. McPheeters, whose preaching I listened to in the old Presbyterian church in Raleigh for many years. He was then Principal of the celebrated Raleigh Academy, a great institution of that period, and minister of the Presbyterian church—a successful teacher and learned and earnest Divine. I wonder if any of your old inhabitants recollect the torchlight procession of students which welcomed him on his arrival at home from a trip down the country to marry and bring home his wife? It was the first torchlight procession I ever saw, and of course cannot be forgotten. No doubt both of those whose death you and your community have so much reason to deplore, were then his students and joined in the welcome. And they may not have left two other participants behind them. That was not far from three score and ten years ago.

Mr. McPheeters and I had much to talk about in regard to Raleigh and its old inhabitants, though he is much my junior and his memory does not go back so far as mine. He reminded me that the first street railway in the United States, if not in the world, was built in Raleigh, nearly fifty years ago, from the State House to the Rock Quarry, to which a few enterprising citizens built it for the purpose of hauling stone to rebuild the Capitol after its destruction by fire in 1831. And it proved to be a very profitable investment, not only to the stockholders but to the State, which had its stone transported at much less cost than by wagons. He remembers Dr. Caldwell's lecture on railroads, with a model of one before him, after his return from England, and before any mile of railroad had been built in this country, and probably before any one of his auditors had ever seen one. Mr. McPheeters himself, during a temporary residence in Chili as United States Navy Agent (by appointment of Governor Graham, Secretary of the Navy under Fillmore), put up the first telegraph ever seen in that country, and the first south of the Equator. He is the oldest of three surviving sons, out of a large family of children of his father, the Rev. Dr. Wm. McPheeters. I showed him some copies of that admirable biography of one of his brothers, the Rev. Dr. Samuel B. McPheeters, whose career in Missouri and Kentucky, from 1851 till his death in 1870, created so profound an interest, not only in those States, but among Presbyterians throughout the country, on account of his learning and eloquence, and the firmness with which he resisted the furious persecution of all Southern men, and particularly all Southern Divines, during the war, in which he clung tenaciously to the Southern cause. He had made a great fame before his early death, in his 51st year. His portrait, in the book, is that of a handsome, but very thoughtful man.

A man named Lafayette T. Beach, a salesman in this city, from Nashville, Tenn., an inveterate opium eater, took a fatal dose of chloroform a few nights ago. At the beginning of the war he had $185,000 to his credit in the Bank of England, all of which he lost in cotton speculations; and he had been turned away from one hotel after another for non-payment of board and for opium eating. His connections are wealthy and highly respectable.

The weather here has been very changeable—a fall of 40° in the thermometer, from 96 to 56.

The doings at Chicago are interesting. They very plainly indicate, at this present writing, that Grant at least is laid upon the shelf,—forever! and if the same fate should befall Blaine and Sherman, who are worse even than Grant, I shall be thankful. You have of course noticed that the darkey members of the Convention are freely spoken of as in the market, as they were said to have been four years ago. It has been a bad speculation for the Grant men if they purchased any of them. You remember what Mr. Pettigrew, of Charleston, said about selling votes by people to whom they were of no further use.

There are seven free public bath houses on East and North rivers in this city, open to men and boys on four days in the week, and to women on the other three days. During last year, 1,852,710 males bathed, and 1,028,569 females. Total 2,881,279.

It is but a little over six years since the Postal Cards came into use in this country, and yet last year no less than 246,063,060 were used, costing $2,460,630.60. The next step in cheapening correspondence will probably be the reduction of letter postage to two cents. H.

THE SUPREME COURT of the United States has decided that a State may constitutionally pass a law requiring "all peddlers of sewing machines and selling by sample" to pay a specified license. Such a statute had been passed by the Legislature of Tennessee, and in accordance with it a tax of $15 was imposed on the agent of the Howe Sewing Machine Company, which is a corporation of Connecticut, and makes its machines in that State. The company paid the tax under protest, and went to law to test the constitutionality of the statute. The Supreme Court of Tennessee held that the tax was levied on all peddlers of sewing machines alike, without regard to the place where the machines or their materials were made coproduced, and that, therefore, the law was valid. The decision is sustained by the U. S. Sup. Court.

A PRIMER OF AMERICAN LITERATURE. By EUGENE LAWRENCE.

"Society the Redeemed Form of Man" is a remarkable book, and one which, though full of keen strokes at great errors, and noble truths luminously held up to view, can never become a popular one, as it is philosophically too abstruse to get its deserts from the reading public. It is written from the standpoint of a Swedenborgian, and the author is evidently a cultivated man of independent thought, who attacks every weak place he finds in any but the "New Church." Every other sect, association, movement or church receives a home thrust, and he has certainly shown great skill in detecting the weak spots of each. His own theory as a Swedenborgian, is that God's object in creation was simply to form a heaven out of the human race, and his effort is to rouse us to the necessity of cultivating a race-sentiment in humanity. Other churches he says, form both a heaven and a hell out of the human race, leaving it strictly optional with each individual to determine himself to either of these opposite poles, but allowing him no chance, when once his choice is made, of correcting it. Immortality he regards as conditioned upon the life-principle within the soul; if this is vigorous and assimilative of good, then the soul reaches out into deathless growth. But it may become so weak in its spiritual vigor, so enfeebled by self-will and vice, as to be extinguished and lose its personality. "Professional Religion," he calls "the devil's masterpiece for ensnaring silly, selfish men. The ugly beast has two heads—one called Ritualism, intended to devour a finer and fastidious style of men, men of sentiment and decorum." The other head he calls "Revivalism," intended to gobble up the coarse and sensual, who are governed by their appetites, and can only be ruled by selfish hope, or selfish fear. Each of these heads is desperately afraid of being pecked to pieces by "a little bantam cock, which calls itself "Radicalism." He has no respect for Messrs. Moody and Sankey, or for "their flashy, histrionic colleague, Joseph Cook;" as little for the average church-life with its cliqueism, caste, selfishness and hypocrisy; but has immense gratitude to Swedenborg, "for what he has done to flood the human mind with light out of inscrutable darkness upon the question of our human origin and destiny." Some of his utterances are very fine, some hopelessly obscure—perhaps because we have never been flooded by the light of Swedenborg,—but one truth which he forcibly puts we can cordially endorse: "No man," he says, "can outwardly communicate truth to his neighbors; much less any whose profession it is to do so, however skilled he may be to communicate scientific information; for truth is living, spiritual, divine, being shaped to every one's intelligence only by what he has of celestial love in his heart."

"Stray Moments with Thackeray" opens with a short biographical account of that author, and is composed entirely, after this introduction, of selections from his works. It is one of the "Handy Volume" series, and the selections alone of his humor and satire are worth the price of the volume.

A novel, even though it is but a short one, from Rhoda Broughton is always acceptable. "Second Thoughts" is in two volumes, the first of which contains the first thoughts of both hero and heroine. A young girl is left a fortune by her cynical father on condition that she marries his physician whom she cordially detests. But if he refuses to marry her she is then to have the fortune, but, till she is of age, must reside with the physician, who is her guardian. First thoughts lead him to refuse to marry her, but it is easy to see he loves her even when he does so. What the second thoughts of cash will lead them to do is what forms the interest of the story.

"The Primer of American Literature" is the last of the series by Eugene Lawrence and is one of Harper's half-hour series. New England would have been more appropriate than American in the title. Among the Orators we have not one single one who was not from that section: Poe is the only Southern writer who is mentioned.

Financial Review of May.

[From the New York Financial Chronicle.]

May was characterized by a notable depression, both at the Stock Exchange and in the merchandise markets. The reaction from the great buoyancy of 1879 and the opening months of the current year, seems to have culminated, as a general rule, in May, and many parties who had been loaded up on speculative account, and had held on tenaciously during the tight money of April, became discouraged when prices further declined in May, and made haste to get clear of their load at the best rates possible. An examination of the prices of many speculative stocks and also of leading classes of merchandise in January last, and towards the close of May, shows that the decline in prices was, in many cases, very severe; and there has seldom been a time when so great a fluctuation in the markets produced so few failures among brokers or merchants. The suspension of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad and Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company, which occurred on Friday, May 21, gave the final coup to the situation, and after this thunder-clap and its immediate consequences the financial atmosphere became somewhat clearer.

The money market was fairly easy throughout the month. Government bonds were particularly strong.

"Kind words can never die." How bitterly does a man realize that terrible truth when he sees all the kindest words he ever used in his life glaring at him from his published letters in a breach of promise suit.

Gossip From Gotham.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

NEW YORK, June 3, 1880.

In obedience to a recent call issued by several well known New York and Brooklyn clergymen, Sunday last was in many churches made a day of prayer for the political conventions at Chicago and Cincinnati. Whether God Almighty will vouchsafe to guide and direct these assemblages in the choice of men, or whether He will leave them entirely to their own devices, is one of those things no fellow can know. Probably no assemblage of men, excepting perhaps that immaculate body, the New York Board of Aldermen, stand so much in need of the prayers of the righteous as do the political conventions at Chicago and Cincinnati. On one occasion, during a long and severe drought, a sensible Western clergyman said from the pulpit: "At the request of a large portion of the congregation I am about to offer up prayers for rain, though I very much fear they will be of no avail till the wind changes." The holy men who asked their brethren to unite with them in praying for the Chicago and Cincinnati President-makers might have studied this anecdote with advantage. Politicians are past praying for, and it cannot reasonably be expected that God will occupy himself in directing the deliberations of nominating conventions whose delegates are supposed to have been chosen by ourselves.

The Indian weed has received another heavy blow. The Methodist Annual Conference has ordered that one of the questions to be asked of candidates for the ministry shall be: "Will you wholly refrain from the use of tobacco?" What will happen if the young man answers in the negative is not stated, but we take it for granted that he will not receive his papers. Dr. Lanahan made some awkward remarks. He said that delegates on the floor used tobacco, "and what would young men think of such persons asking such questions?" A vote being taken, 83 reverend gentlemen rallied to the cause of the weed, but 125 sat down upon it, so to speak, and crushed it. Dr. Curry made a light skirmishing effort in its behalf, but it was of no use. Tobacco was placed among the prohibited pleasures of clergymen—who are young.

The Salvation Army is still at it in this city. Yesterday it held a "council of war" at 10 a. m.; went to work at a "baptism of fire" at 11; let loose its "war memories" at 2:30 p. m., and at 7:30 organized a "great demonstration against sin." This is all very well, but if the Salvation Army really meant to put itself where it would do the most good it would stop fooling around New York and take the new fast train for Chicago.

The census enumerators do not find a path of roses before them when they go their weary rounds. The ignorant interpose all sorts of obstacles, and there is often an element of grotesque. The aristocracy of Water and Cherry streets were found in a state of excitement yesterday morning, when the enumerators visited that section. They were no sooner espied than they were surrounded by a motley crowd of blacks and whites, cursing them.

"Hello! here's the blokes what put our names in the paper to-day," said a white woman with a black eye and discolored face, which looked as if she had recently suffered a severe beating. "Oh, but you're going to catch it."

"Does your wife work?" was asked of a German in one of the houses.

"Nein, she goes to school," was the reply.

"I mean your wife," said the enumerator.

"Oh, mine olt voman; yah, she vorks," replied the Teuton.

A robust Irishwoman stood in a doorway eyeing the proceedings suspiciously.

"What is your age, madame?" asked the enumerator.

"Indade," she said, "it's nobody's business what my age is, an' I shan't tell it to anybody."

The puzzled enumerator looked around until his eye rested on the three chubby children, who stood staring with all their eyes.

"Have you a husband, madame?" he asked in a persuasive and gentle tone, expecting by a change of the subject to mollify the indignant woman.

"Shure, an' do yes think these childer wud be aroun' here if I hadn't?" she demanded, in a voice that made the enumerator quail.

"I didn't know, madam, but that your husband might have been dead, or that you might have got a divorce from him, or——"

"Och, have yez got rid o' yer wits? He's not divorced nor dead either, but as alive an' able-bodied as yerself."

But the work is going on very well, all things considered, and the tenth census will probably be the most complete and valuable that we have had.

A delegation of lovely women left this city for Chicago last night in a parlor car, and by this time are standing ready to hurl into the Chicago platform a plank that will float their sex forevermore in triumph to the polls. She will be for going out and fighting the Indians next. And then she will take to running locomotives, and sawing wood, and want to be Secretaryess of the Navy. Well, well, why should anybody desire to restrain the dear creatures from airing these soulful aspirations? They amuse her and—and they amuse other people too. There is something so droll in the sweet thing's desire to vote, when, any time, every one of her can make from one to twenty men vote for anybody or anything that she pleases. But it is just woman-like, so what is the use of bothering about it? And as to the plank that she wants in the Chicago platform, why she shall ask for just as many planks as she chooses; of course she shall. GIL.

WAITS:

Says a French critic: "I like a girl before she gets womanish, and a woman before she gets girlish."

A stranger, passing a churchyard and seeing a hearse standing hard by, inquired who was dead. The sexton informed him. "What complaint?" asked the inquisitive one. Said the old man: "There is no complaint; everybody is satisfied."

The arithmetic teachers do not now dare ask a third term question in arithmetic. One of them tried it the other day. Said she, "Johnny, what is a unit?" Said he, "My father says it is a dodge of Conkling's and that he'll do as he pleases."

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

MUTTON [illegible]

There is a phase of sheep raising which does not require large outlay and costly preparation to conduct, and while it will prove more profitable on the amount of capital invested and care required, than the large flocks kept mainly for their wool, is within the reach of every farmer, and should be a part of his farming. This is small flocks of mutton sheep, within ten or fifteen miles of large towns. Good mutton sells higher than beef in all the butcher shops, and the cause is a scarcity of mutton sheep. The supply for the home market is of a very inferior quality, and even this is held at a luxury price. Here is a market at the very door of farmers where all they can raise of good quality mutton sheep and lambs, can be readily disposed of at tip top prices, and without the intervention of middle men, or of any transportation charges to cut down the profits. Every farmer could purchase and take care of twenty to fifty head of mutton sheep, which each year would bring him a very nice little return. Of course they could not be kept running out at the mercy of dogs—they must be kept in a pasture and carefully housed at night, particularly in regions where there are dogs likely to interfere with them. But really, after all, according to this writer, the chronic terror of dogs depredating on sheep is more of a bugaboo than anything else, if a farmer gives proper attention to his flock. Of course if he neglects it and allows the sheep to ramble at will he will lose them. If every farmer kept a flock of sheep, sheep-killing dogs would not be so plenty. A pup raised on a farm with sheep is not apt to be a sheep thief, unless he is of the lowest type of the sneaking cur.

But the profit in a flock of ewes numbering 25 to 100 head of mutton sheep is sufficient inducement for every farmer to bestow the requisite care to keep such a flock in the best condition. He would soon find that nothing else on the farm brought him half the profit on the investment, and the present is the best time to make this addition to his stock. Get a bunch of common ewes which are under five years old, and then add to the flock a good grade of Cotswold male. Keep the largest and best formed ewe lambs of this cross, sell the indifferent ewes and all the male lambs. Repeat this practice for three years, fattening and disposing of the old stock as the young supplies their places, and at the end of the third year sell the old male and get a young animal of the same breed, and a most valuable flock of mutton sheep will have been built up, worth, per head, more than double the original stock, while the yearly profit from wool, lambs, and old sheep will have returned a larger comparative profit than any other item on the farm. A home market there is no danger of glutting with mutton sheep, and raising them gives more profit and speedier returns than for any other stock on the farm.—Kansas Farm.

SHEEP SHEARING.

Washing sheep under the present system of buying wool, will perhaps be the prevailing practice. If care is taken to keep the sheep so that the wool will not be filled with dirt, it is better not to wash. Fleeces should be done up with care, nicely rolled and securely tied with light twine. When it is known that a farmer puts up his wool in neat shape without any tags, etc., he will obtain the highest price. Everywhere, but especially here, "honesty is the best policy."

TICKS.

Immediately after shearing the ticks leave the sheep for the longer wool of the lambs. The lambs thus infested should be dipped in a decoction of tobacco stems, which will destroy the ticks. Several special dips are in the market.

WORKING HORSES.

A thorough washing with clean water, not too cold, will greatly aid in keeping the working horses in a good condition; it removes the accumulated and dried sweat and dirt much better than dry rubbing. The harness should be kept clean and soft that it may not gall the animals. A little powdered aloes rubbed on with the oil will keep away any insects that are likely to infest the harness, and will do no injury to the horse.

CALVES should have a good run of grass. The pushing of them without overdoing must be kept in mind. The first year's growth determines in a great measure what shall be the future of the animal.—American Agriculturist for June.

HOG RANGE.

During the Summer season a first-class hog range can be provided by putting an open woodland or bare field into clover. This will afford ample and nutritious feed; the animals will always be under the eye of the owner and cannot easily be stolen or get into mischief. Indeed with the succulent food they have the disposition to range in forbidden pastures will be greatly diminished. This is a far better plan than to allow them to run wild in the woods, a prey to every vagabond.

Pigs for early Fall killing will need a regular and generous feeding of bran and meal slops. A quantity of milk, with a run in the grass, will do them good. A little forcing at the start pays well for pigs that are grown for the early market.

Hon. Thos. Sparrow for Auditor.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.]

WASHINGTON, June 3, 1880.

EDITOR NEWS:—I propose the name of Maj. Thos. Sparrow for the position of Auditor, and I am satisfied that this suggestion will meet with hearty approval throughout North Carolina. I will state that Maj. Sparrow's military record is that of a gallant soldier who entered the war at its commencement and followed the varying fortunes of the "Lost Cause" until its flag was furled at Appomattox.

His civil record, both before and after the war, is that of a patriot and statesman. He served with distinction in the General Assembly before the war, but the crowning glory of his unselfish life is the distinguished part he took in the impeachment of W. W. Holden. It was owing in great measure to his brave, bold, and persistent efforts that the liberties of free men and the sacred writ of habeas corpus were vindicated. His prominence in these patriotic efforts was recognized by the Legislature, which appointed him the manager of the great impeachment trial. How well he acquitted himself, his able speech and the testimony of Judge Merrimon and other able coadjutors abundantly show. Since then he has served in the ranks and has always responded to the calls of his party wherever his earnest eloquence was necessary. His modesty alone has kept him in comparative obscurity and he shrinks from anything like office-seeking. These are the kind of men we want. Put Maj. Sparrow on the ticket and instead of being pulled through by the other candidates he will be a positive strength in the coming election and his name will inspire enthusiasm among all who remember the troublous times of 1869 and 1870, and the noble and devoted stand he took in those days "which tried men's souls." GRATITUDE.

Old Si and the Census Taker.

[From the Atlanta Constitution.]

Old Si came in rather late yesterday looking somewhat fatigued. After a minute he said:

"Dis am er moughty kurus perseedin' dese men kerryin' on 'round hyar wid dese fortfolyos."

"Do you mean the census takers?"

"I bleeve dat ar' de name dey goes by."

"What have they been doing now?"

"W'y dey's bin down dar in my nabor-hood jess stirrin up mo' 'rath dan all de parsons inside de korpyrashbun kin put down in er month."

"That is unfortunate. Have they visited you yet?"

"Dat's what makes me so behin' time ter day. One ob dem cum down ter my house dis mo'nin' an' tap on de gate; I axed him what's de matter an' he say he done cum ter take my sensus; an' he hain't no mo'in got hit out dan I sed ter jess go 'way from dar 'kase dar won't no bizness in dat shanty fur enny drummers from de loonytick 'sylums!"

"What did he say?"

"He say dat ef I fools wid de sensus he done gwine ter put de law ter me; an' den he 'splained de law. Den I seed hit wus all rite an' I axed him in."

"How did you get along then?"

"We got 'long purty well outell he cum ter de coloum whar de chillun are sot down; den he say ter me what am de cullah ob my chillun? I say 'lookie heah, you jess figger on what de law 'lows an' don't cum 'round hyar axin' 'sultin questchins like dat! He say dat he got ter put down whether dey is black er merlatter'—an' den ole harrycane broke loose!"

"How was that?"

"De ole 'oman was lissnen an' when she heah dat she upset de table whar de fortfolyo war lyin,' empted de starch bowl all ober de returns an' 'gin ter holler 'Heah Tiger' jess like de forty theeves done broke in de house! De sensus man he grabb'd up his dockyments an' made fer de fence an' twixt holdin' de ole 'oman wid one han' an' Tige wid de odder I got mos' tucker'd out."

"Where did the census man go?"

"De las' I seed ob him he was up on top ob er box kyar by de Ar'-Line shop dryin' out de returns ob de district on de tin roof!"

"And how did you get the old lady quieted?"

"She haint quiet yit. I jess had ter make my 'skape, too, 'kase she was gwine fer me fer lettin de man in' and she say dat ef de United States wants ter kno' de cullah ob her chillun she ar' boun' ter rite hit on de eye ob ebery munerashner dey sends prowlin' 'round her camp-groun'! She's er vigrous 'oman, too, fer er bo'n fac!"

And the old man got up to go to the supervisor and explain matters.

It Was The Cat.

[From the Detroit Free Press.]

Down at Howell the other day an old woman about 70 years old boarded a Detroit, Lansing & Northern train to come to this city. Her baggage consisted of a large covered basket, and she wouldn't allow any hand to take it from her. She had scarcely got seated when the passengers were startled by a loud "Me-ow!" in the car, quickly followed by a "per-wow" and other "wows" too numerous to mention. While all were searching to discover the cat the old lady sat as stiff as a poker and looked straight ahead at the stovepipe. The sounds continued and a passenger finally peered around until he located the cat in her basket.

"Madam, are you taking that cat from one county to another?" he asked.

"What cat?" she snapped.

"Don't you know that under the laws of this State," he went on, "a person who removes a full-grown cat from one county to another without the written permission of the Swamp Land Commissioners is liable to a fine of $100?"

"Good lands! but I didn't know that!" she exclaimed, as she faced around.

"Women don't keep track of the laws as men do," he said. "Personally, I'd like to see you take that cat through to Detroit, but there may be some one on this train just mean enough to inform against you and have you arrested. I'd let her out if I were you."

"Yes, I will, for I don't want to break any law at my age."

She fumbled around the basket for a minute, and all of a sudden the cat jumped out. She alighted on the head of the man who put up the job, gave him several sharp digs, and then leaped from one to another like a squirrel, biting, spitting and clawing as she went. Everybody rose up and yelled—everybody but the old woman. She sat like a statue, afraid of being suspected. When the feline had gone the length of the car she turned to an open window and shot out like a bullet, landing right-side up and making tracks for a barn in a field.

"Who brought that cat aboard? I demand the name of the person who owned that cat!" shouted a man whose head had felt her claws until the blood run.

No one answered. Several passengers looked straight at the old woman, who stood it for a minute and then lifted up her basket and called out:

"If anybody wants to look among the dried peaches in this basket for cats he can do so; you needn't all look at me as if I lived in the woods and didn't keep posted on law."

CITY AND COUNTY NOTES:—

Internal Revenue receip's $2,837.20.

Only one marriage license was issued yes erday.

The Board of Aldermen hold a special session to-morrow night

It looked yesterday morning as if the long season in May was upon us.

A small rat hunt was the only excitement below the telegraph office yesterday.

The Sunday-school children of the church of the Good Shepherd pic-nic to-day at Kittrell.

The contractors commenced the brick laying on Messrs. Parker & Avera's new store yesterday.

Judge Upchurch on yesterday bound Mary Susan Mangum, a white girl aged ten years, to Mr. W. F. Thomason, of House's Creek township.

Deputy Collector Burns says that gross injustice is done S anly county in saying it furnishes more moonshiners than any other county in the State. She don't.

Unstamped letters are held in this office directed to Henry Julian, 301 Canal St., N. Y., and W. A. Tottle & Co., Baltimore, Md. Also a package addressed to R. S. Gilmer, Mt. Airy, Surry county, N. C.

It is related of Lord Chesterfield that on one occasion when he was the leader of the English Parliament he was induced to spend a week with a fox-hunting baronet, one of his supporters. The first day Chesterfield went out hunting with the rest, but next morning when called to go out again he exclaimed, "Good Lord! does any one ever hunt twice?" We were forcibly reminded of this incident yesterday when we found on our table a very kind invitation to a Leap Year hop at Clinton Female Institute. We thank the young ladies very heartily for honoring us so highly, but we've been to one Leap Year Hop, and was a wall-flower.

DEPARTMENT NOTES:—

Col. W. J. Hicks, Superintendent of the Penitentiary, paid over to the Treasurer on Monday $533, money derived from the sale of brick and stone and from hiring out convicts as cotton choppers.

The Secretary of State has finished distributing the reports as required by law. Persons wishing to purchase the volume can now do so.

The Attorney General has filed a demurrer to the complaint in the case of William Horne against the State. This is the case in which the legality of the special tax bonds is involved.

The Treasurer received $66,500 old bonds for exchange yesterday. This puts him well over the hill, the amount received to date now being more than six and a quarter millions.

Armstrong, Cator & Co., of Baltimore, took out a drummer's license yesterday.

PERSONAL:—

Hon. W. T. Dortch was in the city yesterday.

Hon. R. P. Buxton is in Raleigh.

Maj. R. S. Tucker left for New York yesterday morning.

The well in capitol square is being cleaned and the dispatches from Chicago look like Sherman was too.

MARKET REPORTS.—Chicago, June 7, 8 o'clock, p. m.—Southern delegates excited with upward tendency. Prime articles are quoted at $1,000 to $1,200 with chairmen of delegations stiff at the latter figures.

MEMORIAL MEETING.—The meeting in memory of C. N. Otey, who departed this life at Washington, D. C., some few days since, will take place at St. Paul's A. M. E. Church, this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. The public are invited to attend. A splendid programme has been arranged. The Hesperian choir will furnish music.

WAKE FOREST COMMENCEMENT.—Extra trains will be run over the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad on Wednesday and Thursday for the accommodation of visitors to Wake Forest Commencement as follows: Wednesday—Leave Raleigh at 10 a. m.; leave Wake Forest at 1:30 p. m. Thursday—Leave Raleigh at 10 a. m., and 6:45 p. m.; leave Wake Forest at 1:30 p. m. and 12 midnight.

Y. M. C. A.—There will be an important meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association this evening in their hall in the Holleman building, to make arrangements for the approaching meeting of the State Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, to be held the 17th inst. A full meeting is particularly requested.

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.

THE SUPREME COURT—Met yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, all the Justices present. The day was spent in examining applicants for license, of whom there are forty-two, and to-day will be spent in the same way. To-morrow the appeals from the first district will be called in their regular order. Only one colored applicant is in the class.

Commencement at Wake Forest College.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE, June 7th. The following is the programme:

Tuesday, June 8th, meeting of the Trustees at 10 a. m. Address before the Alumni Association at 8:30 p. m. by Captain T. D. Boone, of Hertford county, N. C.

Wednesday, June 9th at 11 a. m., Address before the Literary Societies by David R. Wallace, M. D. of Waco, Texas. At 4 p. m., Annual Reunion of the Societies. At 8:30 The Sermon before the Graduating Class by the Rev. Wayland Hoyt, D. D., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Thursday, June 10th—Exercises will begin at 10 a. m. Orations of graduating class; delivery of medals; conferring degrees, &c., with a social gathering at 8:30 in honor of the graduating class.

A good band of music from Richmond is already here and the promise of a brilliant commencement is flattering.

Special trains will be run on Wednesday and Thursday, and it is earnestly hoped that many friends will come out both days and remain till the close of the night services. We extend a cordial invitation to all and will do our utmost to make the visit a pleasant one. T. H. PRITCHARD.

AMONG OUR CHURCHES.—In the First Baptist Church Sunday Dr. Tucker preached two sermons, one in the morning and one at night. He preached in the morning from the text, "Ye are not your own, ye are bought with a price." The main idea he impressed upon his hearers was that the Redeemer had a moral right to the love and adoration of the redeemed. At night the subject of Dr. Tucker's discourse was the danger and folly of resisting calls of the Spirit. His text was: "To-day if ye hear His voice, harden not your hearts."

The Sunday-school services were of the usual character. The Sunday-school now has 600 names on the rolls, with an average attendance of 400. It has 40 teachers. Col. J. M. Heck is the Superintendent.

At Swain Street Baptist church 247 scholars were present at the Sunday-school; 11 new members; 2 teachers detained by sickness; N. B. Broughton, superintendent, after an absence of 2 weeks, returned and gave an account of much that he heard and saw. J. W. Denmark and W. R. Dix, two of the teachers, reported the organization of a Mission School at the Fair Ground. Jacob S. Allen called attention to the fact that this was the fifth anniversary of the school and suggestions were offered about celebrating the same in the near future. Pastor W. R. Gwaltney preached in the morning and J. M. Davis, of Wake Forest College, at night.

There were no services at Edenton street Methodist Church on account of the sickness of Mr. Black. The Sunday school numbers 300 pupils. Mr. D. W. Bain is superintendent. The usual services were had.

At the Person street Methodist Church Rev. T. W. Smith preached in the morning and at night. The Sunday school of this church is under the superintendence of Mr. V. Ballard, and has an average attendance of 120 scholars.

Rev. John E. C. Smedes preached at Christ Church in the morning, and conducted divine service but had no sermon in the afternoon. The usual exercises were held in the Sunday school, of which Col. W. E. Anderson is superintendent.

Rev. E. R. Rich preached with his usual ability, at the Church of the Good Shepherd in the morning and at night. The Sunday-school had a full attendance.

The First Presbyterian Church being in course of enlargement, its congregation assembled in the lecture room. We have but once had the pleasure of hearing the pastor of this church, Rev. J. S. Watkins, but from that sample of his powers, we are not surprised that his congregation, under his ministry, have found it necessary to enlarge their place of worship. Mr. W. S. Primrose, the Superintendent of this Sunday-school, informs us that it now numbers 125 scholars and 16 teachers.

The Second Presboterian congregation listened to a powerful sermon from their pastor, Rev. J. M. Atkinson, who has recently had the well-merited degree of D. D. conferred on him by the University, in the chapel of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind. It is hoped that by next Sunday the new church now being built for this congregation will be ready for occupation.

HOW ABOUT CHICAGO?—This question was asked yesterday about a thousand times a minute and was answered as numerously. The crowd b gan to assemble in front of the telegraph office at an early hour, and when the first bulletin was posted at 14 minutes past 11 o'clock there was a surge like a tidal wave all over the porch. And it was a smart crowd too. As each successive telegram came out such expressions might be heard all over the street as, "Look'e dere now," "What I tole you," "Des like I say 'twas gwine to be," &c. The intervals between the receipt of the dispatches were given up to prophecy, and the fact that no one of these prophecies was in a single instance verified did not in the least deter the prophets from making new and entirely contradictory ones so soon as the logic of events showed them all out of calculation. In one group some rising lawyer, with hat set on the back of his head, would explain with an air of one who knows it all, how it was that "Grant can't get in for." In another a buck as black as the ace of spades, with whitewash spattered over his trousers, was telling that "the secret of Blaine's strength is easily understood," and then he would go off in a disquisition on a subject of which his dense ignorance was only equalled by that of his listeners. It was a characteristically American crowd, good humored, deeply interested and swayed by each passing excitement as a reed by the wind.

THE GERMAN.—The young ladies of Raleigh, in return for the many attentions received by them at the Commencement last week, gave a German complimentary to the students of the University at the National Hotel last night. It was a success, as under such auspices it must have been. More than twenty couples participated and the affair was in all respects most enjoyable. We would write it up more fully, but the young ladies were almost entirely those noticed in THE NEWS' report of the Chapel Hill ball. It is true that their dresses were, if possible, even handsomer than on that occasion, but dress is so small a quota of the charmingness of these young ladies as to be not worth noticing.

POLICE COURT.—The Mayor sent a chronic case of drunk to the jail for 10 days yes erday. His only other case was between two belligerents who shook fists at each other across the street and paid the costs for doing it.

STATE POLITICAL ITEMS:—

A telegram from Salisbury last evening informs us that McDowell County's Democratic Convention has instructed its delegates for Jarvis.

The Burke Blade says that Capt. Natt. Atkinson is on the war path as an independent who intends to be beaten for Congress by Gen. R. B. Vance, along with J. B. Eaves, Radical.

A private letter to the editor from Fayetteville says in regard to the late Convention there: "We are all satisfied with the nomination of Shackelford. He will without doubt poll the full party vote and of course be our next Congressman. The nomination will allay all differences and unite the party."

George H. Gregory, Esq., Chairman of the Executive Committee of the 5th Congressional District says officially in the last Greensboro Patriot: "I think I can say by authority that Gen. A. M. Scales is not a candidate under any circumstances for the Gubernatorial nomination." This fact, we suppose, accounts for the Guilford meeting not instructing for Gen. Scales.

Chicago Incidents.

[Gathered from the Herald's Reports.]

A SPECTACLE FOR ROYALTY.

The Ohio men, joined by Sherman's forces, preceded by a good band, marched through the streets to the hall, Governor Foster in the fore front, with a straw hat on his head and a cigar stump in his mouth. The picture offered by this Democratic procedure to the Princess Louise, Prince Leopold and the other British titulars, who stared from the windows of the Grand Pacific, was unquestionably queer, but equally natural.

A LITTLE PRAYER.

When Conkling had been cheered and Garfield applauded, Mr. Hoar introduced a clever little gentleman in a white choker, moustache and small side whiskers, as the Rev. Mr. Little, who would offer a prayer. Mr. Little then proceeded, in a very pronounced and stentorian manner, to make the offer. The quantity was limited, but the quality was above the average of these perfunctory tenders.

LIKE A FIRE BELL AT NIGHT.

When the noble Logan took the floor his ponderous voice aroused the sleepers. There was a rubbing of eyes, a stretching of legs and a lifting of arms. One colored member, who had forgotten the object for which the Convention had been called, on coming to his senses, exclaimed, "Next customer!"

"TILL HELL FREEZES OVER."

"The Grant men have no second choice," said Mr. Pierrepont, in reply to a question.

"How much of this is buncombe?"

"Not a word, sir; you will find it as true as Gospel. The Grant men will stick till you can skate across Hades. There is no discount on their sand."

"What are you going to do to-night? Caucus again, I suppose?"

"No, we are not. The time for holding camp meetings is past, and the time for business has arrived."

A COLORED MAN IN THE CHAIR.

At twelve o'clock Mr. Hoar called on Senator Bruce, of Mississippi, to take the chair. What the queer looking picture of Washing on thought of the spectacle of a black man in the president's chair it would be difficult to imagine. Mr. Bruce is unquestionably black, not as black as the ace of spades, but rather the color of a weather beaten sign. He is short and stout, has a bulky and rather low forehead. His cheeks run to jowlishness and his moustache is jet black and as straight as a plumb line. He wears regulation black clothes and a white choker, and inclines to profuse perspiration. It is one of the signs of the times, and the fact that there was no applause of consequence when he took the chair is rather confirmatory of the theory, that genuine regard of the colored brother by his white Republican fellows is external and perfunctory, rather than hearty and principled. It is still further significant that Mr. Hoar relieved Mr. Bruce from duty as soon as the clerk had finished reading the report from Mr. Garfield's Committee on Rules. The bearing and general demeanor of Senator Bruce were calculated to conciliate the most malignant partisan. There is a combustion of gratitude and pride which gives a color of protest against hostile criticism and invites favorable observation and consideration.

PRINCE LEOPOLD.

Not far from him sat Prince Leopold. This youth is said to be the brightest of Victoria's children. Let us hope so; he certainly is the homeliest. His head is small and shelving, and is well covered with hair of a brownish tint that stretches from a little pimple near his ear far down his slender neck. He has the Victorian eye and the lip of a Guelph. His nose indicates curiosity, being long and prominent, with a tendency to point heavenward that is not entirely pleasant. Leopold's as yet undeveloped moustache does not conceal the fact that his mother never taught him to keep his mouth shut. On the contrary, he sat with one thin leg thrown over the other long one, his upper teeth showing like a squirrel's and his long hands being knuckly and red as a boiled lobster. In spite of his rather uncomely appearance the young Prince indicated considerable intelligence for a royal personage, and nearly smiled several times.

What They Look Like.

CHICAGO PERSONALS.

[Gleaned from the Chicago Tribune.]

SENATOR ROSCOE CONKLING.

A handsome man is Mr. Conkling; handsome is the exact word; tall and straight; a high forehead, made higher by the falling away of the light, sandy curly hair; a full beard, nearly white, just long enough to admit of being trimmed and dressed into the rather foppish Venetian poin—such a beard as the Doges wore—the beard of the man who values the high opinion of both man and woman who are not intellectually above admiring mere physical beauty; a small nose, pinched at the end, with the least suspicion of an appearance as if designed by nature to "turn up;" cold, gray-blue selfish eyes. That is Mr. Conkling. He looks anxious and careworn, as if conscious of having reached a crisis in his political fortunes. There is an expression on his handsome face as of a man who constantly detects himself in the act of looking back instead of forward—that reflective mood which robs action of its fire, and cheats the man of the world of success. The careful, keen observer cannot dissuade himself of the impression that the Sprague affair lurks in his memory, and that that inglorious episode is a constant thorn in his flesh.

SENATOR DON CAMERON.

Mr. Cameron is not an imposing man,—undersized,—at least so he appeared behind the desk,—dark-skinned with dark eyes and a dark moustache. He has none of the airs of a Senator. He might be a merchant, or a bank President, or the actuary of an insurance company, or a country lawyer in good practice, but not a statesman, according to the common type of statesmen. The three little raps with the gavel betray Mr. Cameron's nervousness. They lack the clang of resolution. Indeed, as the Chairman of the National Committee stands a moment regarding the vast audience he has stilled so easily, there is an air of hesitation, almost of timidity, about the man. And all this is in very striking contrast with his lion-like bravery of two days ago in the National Committee room, where he proclaimed himself dictator of his colleagues and refused to put the questions that did not suit him, and refused to entertain appeals from his autocratic decisions. But the break in the Pennsylvania delegation was not then a matter of history. Important events have occurred in the last few days, and these events have left their mark upon the member of the Syndicate from the Keystone State. He looks worn and haggard as he turns with a listless air to the clergyman by his side and asks him to open the Republican Convention with prayer.

SENATOR MATT CARPENTER.

By the side of Douglass stands Matt Carpenter, the boy lawyer and Senator, the man who abjures all responsibility for what he does and what he says. He happens to be a member of the Syndicate, and he has come on from the Capital to do his part. He has that languid, listless air which betokens little interest. He is in the Syndicate to-day, but may be out of it to-morrow.

SENATOR JOHN A. LOGAN.

Gen. Logan is a picture of great physical force. The swarthy Senator might well be mistaken for an Egyptian from Alexandria. He is short, stout, dark as an American Indian, with long, straight black hair, and an immense blue-black moustache, hiding his mouth and meeting under his chin. He looks fierce now, for the scheme of the Syndicate, of which he is the third member, is already a failure, and nothing but success ever brings a smile to the not unhandsome face of "the gentleman from Jackson county."

CHAIRMAN HOAR.

Mr. Hoar looks like a rather intellectual Methodist minister. He is of medium size, neither short nor thin; face flushed, hair short and white, side whiskers, eyes spectacled. He looks the sturdy New Englander of Puritan descent that he is. His speech, delivered in a voice too weak for the vastness of the hall, is good both in matter and manner, and elicits frequent bursts of applause. He arraigns the Democratic party on its record, and passes in review briefly the great achievements of the Republican party When he refers to Lincoln, the nominee of twenty years ago here, there is a hearty round of applause.

BUSINESS NEWS ITEMS:—

Last week's weekly statement of the New York Associated Banks shows the following changes: Loans increase $2,839,600, specie decrease $1,837,300; legal tenders decrease $612,700; deposits increase $4,076,400; circulation decrease $178,200; reserve increase $205,600. The banks now hold $16,334,050 in excess of legal requirements.

An interesting statement was presented to the Brewers' Congress by Delegate Frederick Lauer, of Reading, Pa., who showed that in ten years our export of domestic beer and ale had increased from 1,500 to 125,000 dozens of bottles and from 66,000 to 120,000 gallons in casks, while during the past six years the importation of foreign ale and beer has decreased by about a million of gallons. Mexico, Brazil and the rest of Spanish America furnish the customers for more than one-half of the malt liquor of American production thus exported.

The feverish speculation in iron which raged during the winter and early spring, and the enormous inflation in prices, followed lately by a heavy decline, begin to bear their natural fruits in serious business failures. The Lissberger failure of Thursday, involving over two millions of liabilities, was closely duplicated on Friday, when Charles W. Scofield, of 115 Broadway, New York, suspended, with liabilities of almost an equal amount.

Met her with a pleasant look,
And said, "Now, Mary Ann, bile in
And take my place as—cook."

But Mary Ann popped up her nose
And said, "Mamma, I wont.
What! Come right out of school and cook!
You bet your socks I don't."
That anxious, overbearing ma,
Like any mother should,
Hit Mary Ann beneath the ear
With a great big stick of wood.

So now that school-girl graduate,
With pleasure in her eye,
Can cook a steak or wash a shirt
Or make a dish-rag fly.
Her mother taught her what it was
To lead a useful life.
There're forty chaps a running there.
Each wants her for his—cook.

GILDERSLEEVE'S
LATIN SERIES.
—BY—
B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., Gottingen, LL.D., Professor of Greek in Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Rarely have text-books been greeted with so large a measure of favor and hearty appreciation, as these books by Professor Gildersleeve, have received from the best scholastic and educational minds of the country. The author, now of national reputation as a scholar, has had very complete preparation for such a work. After being graduated at Princeton, he studied for several years in the Universities of Germany, where he received his Ph. D., etc., with highest honors. His subsequent life has been devoted to teaching and linguistic study. When the new and richly endowed Johns Hopkins University sought for a fit man for its chair of Greek, the appointment was conferred on Prof. Gildersleeve, after wide conferences, and without his solicitation or effort, and his work as active professor of the University attracts marked attention. He is also the presiding officer of the American Philogical Association.

Prof. Gildersleeve's Latin books are the product of this order of ability and educational training. Embodying the best results of recent studies in Latin philology, they are simple, clear and practical in method.

THE LATIN PRIMER,
complete in itself, a naturally developed book for beginners, at once holds the interest of the pupil, and prepares him thoroughly for ready and intelligent use of Grammar and Reader, or Latin author. It supplies: "Maximum of Forms; Minimum of Syntax; Early Contact with the Language in Mass."

A teacher in one of the leading High Schools of the country, who conducted a large class through this book, writes:

"We have just finished the Primer, having spent upon it thirty-four weeks; and I have been trying to realise my pupils' attitude towards the study, as compared with that of other classes I have known. They have thirteen of the larger vocabulary; their text-book has encouraged for them a careful drill in the normal combinations; they have been brought more intimately tact with the language in the concrete, and have, therefore, a more vivid interest in it; and they have been less perplexed by exceptional forms and difficult construction.

"The book is thoroughly alive, and will prove force make its students so."

THE LATIN GRAMMAR
is marked by its genuine scholarship, clear and logical arrangement of material, and typography that pleasantly aids the eye. Its presentation of forms is plain and convenient; its definitions, rules and other statements are lucid and pointed; and its translations of illustrative examples are most striking models for students.

THE LATIN READER
has Fables and Stories; "De Gestis Alexandri" a most interesting narrative, chiefly from Curtius; one book of Cesar's "De Bello Gallico" treated in a manner to make it an admirable drill in Latin Syntax; also notes and References to the Grammar, and a Vocabulary.

THE LATIN EXERCISE-BOOK,
a book of Latin Composition, compared to which is noticeable for its well-graded course of exercises, apt choice of idioms, and adaptation to train the average learner to a thorough mastery of the words and constructions of the language.

Financial Chronicle Market Reports.

NEW YORK, June 5, 1880.

The cotton receipts of last week were 23,674 bales; since September 1st, 4,763,116, an increase over 1879 of 362,306 bales. The exports were 68,642 bales; since September 1st, 3,516,362, an increase of 215,459 bales. The stock, 373,611 bales, an increase of of 136,841 bales. The visible supply, 2,271,296 bales, an increase of 565,516 over 1879, 245,479 over 1878, and a decrease of 371,861, from 1877. Of this supply, 1,546,246 Americans, of which 455,217 in the United States. The receipts at the interior ports, 6,990; an increase over 1879 of 1,619 bales. The interior stocks, 130,635, an increase of 93,065 bales. The plantation receipts, 11,068; in 1879, 6,461; in 1878, 7,509 bales; since September 1st, 4,886,450; in 1879, 4,432,728; in 1878, 4,326,156. The price at Liverpool on Friday was 6 11-16; in 1879, 7; 1878, 6¼; 1877, 6d. In general, the weather for the past week has been favorable and crop reports satisfactory.

General business at New York continued to be dull last week, and the accumulations of stocks of many descriptions of foreign merchandise begin to be very excessive. Speculation continues sluggish, and there is a large accumulation of loanable funds in the city.

In the New York cotton market last week the speculation in futures was without much spirit, and prices variable and irregular, making no very important changes in either direction. The sales were 352,800 bales. The market for spots was quiet, and the sales for immediate delivery 6,190 bales; of which 4,632 for export, and 1,558 for consumption.

The New York flour market was last week steadier for extreme low grades, the supplies having been reduced by free taking the week before. The other grades ruled barely steady and trade dull. Wheat was slightly depressed. Corn was steady and in small supply.

In the New York dry goods market last week there was a slight improvement in the demand for cotton goods by jobbers and converters, but otherwise the market remained in the same quiet condition reported of late. The most important feature of the week's business was a brisk movement in printing cloths and a sharp rally in prices of these goods, over 250,000 pieces having been sold here and at the manufacturing centres at a material advance upon late quotations. The demand for clothing woolens has been light and unimportant, but values were fairly maintained in the face of a declining market for the staple.

Foreign goods were very quiet in first hands, and will probably continue so until importations for the autumn trade are placed on the market. The jobbing trade was spasmodic, and transactions were mostly restricted to filling orders from interior retailers, who are said to be doing a very satisfactory business. The export movement in domestics showed a further increase, 3,439 packages having been shipped during the week.

TUTT'S PILLS

SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER.

Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the Head, with a dull sensation in the back part, Pain under the shoulder-blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, with a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weariness, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Yellow Skin, Headache generally over the right eye, Restlessness with disturbed Dreams, Highly colored Urine.

IF THESE WARNINGS ARE UNHEEDED, SERIOUS DISEASES WILL SOON BE DEVELOPED.

TUTT'S PILLS are especially adapted to such cases, one dose effects such a change of feeling as to astonish the sufferer.

CONSTIPATION.

Only with regularity of the bowels can perfect health be enjoyed. If the constipation is allowed daily, a single dose of TUTT'S PILLS will suffice, but if it has become habitual, one pill should be taken every night, gradually lessening the frequency of the same until a regular daily movement is obtained, which will soon follow.

Dr. I. Guy Lewis, Fulton, Ark., says: "After a practice of 22 years, I pronounce TUTT'S PILLS the best anti-bilious medicine ever made."

Rev. F. K. Gaskill, New York, says: "I have had Dyspepsia, Weak Stomach and Nervousness. I never had any medicine to do me so much good as TUTT'S PILLS. They are as good as represented."

Office 35 Murray Street, New York.
